A Note from the Director

We are nearing the end of our 2008-09 basketball season. There are a few players that need to take a core course to satisfy the NCAA eligibility requirements. We have arranged for them to take their courses online. If they do not complete their online course by the end of March, since it is an online course, they will be able to complete the course at home with you, as long as they will have access to a computer.

As we near the end of our regular basketball season, I have seen these young men mature, get physically stronger and utilize the skills and techniques that they have been taught. Recruitment has picked up for these young men, and now they have offers from Division I and Division II programs. As you begin to research these colleges and universities, keep in mind that you are more than welcomed to accompany your son on his official college visit. Some colleges will only cover the expenses of the player, if you do decide to travel with your son on his official visit. The offer that your son will receive does have a deadline, and these colleges will move on to their next choice if they do not have a response from you soon. Remember, if you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.
